LA CHOCOLATIERÈ -A LA REINE-

La chocolatière parvint en France vers 1670. C'est Marie-Thérèse d'Autriche, épouse de Louis XV, qui l'apporta et la fit connaître par le roi. C'est vers 1750 qu'on vit les chocolatières en porcelaine qui nous en offrent, sous le nom de la reine, la plus précieuse et la plus recherchée. Sa préparation exige un long brassage et une agitation permanente de liquide que l'on laisse épaissir à l'aide d'une tige de bois appelée moutarde et de sucre de cassonade. Son succès ou son insuccès dépendent de la façon de le faire. Les débris, qui sont toujours plus dans le genre de la reine, exigent le degré de cuisson.

Cette chocolatière fut portée de Venise à la cour, pendant le séjour d'un évêque vénitien par la comtesse de Senece en 1744.
