In Red Letters: Living Faith That Bleeds, author Sarah Jones shares her powerful and inspiring journey of transformation and redemption through the teachings of Jesus Christ.

Raised in a conservative Christian home, Sarah's faith was shaken by tragedy and doubt. She struggled to reconcile the God she had been taught about with the suffering she saw in the world. In her darkest moments, she turned away from God, seeking solace in alcohol and relationships that left her feeling empty and lost.

But Sarah's story doesn't end there. Through a series of life-changing events, she found herself drawn back to the teachings of Jesus. She discovered that true faith was not about following a set of rules or believing in a distant God, but about living a life of love, compassion, and service.

In Red Letters, Sarah shares her raw and honest account of her struggles and triumphs. She explores the challenges of living a faith that is not always easy, but is always worth it. She offers hope and inspiration to those seeking a deeper connection with God and a life of purpose and meaning.

With its captivating storytelling and profound insights, Red Letters is a must-read for anyone who has ever questioned their faith or who is seeking a more fulfilling and meaningful life.

Sarah Jones is a writer, speaker, and advocate for social justice. She has written for numerous publications, including The Huffington Post, Christianity Today, and Relevant Magazine. She is the founder of the Red Letters Movement, a non-profit organization that promotes a faith that is rooted in love, compassion, and service. Sarah lives in Nashville, Tennessee, with her husband and two children.
